

The North Shore Country Day School

1989-90
Supplement

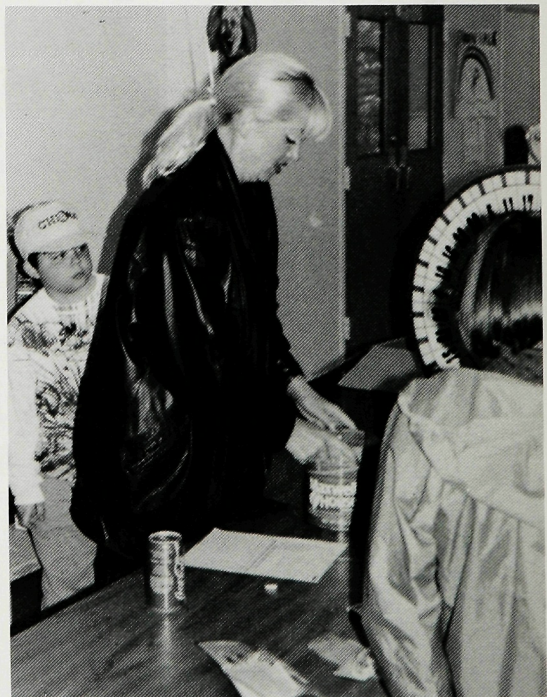

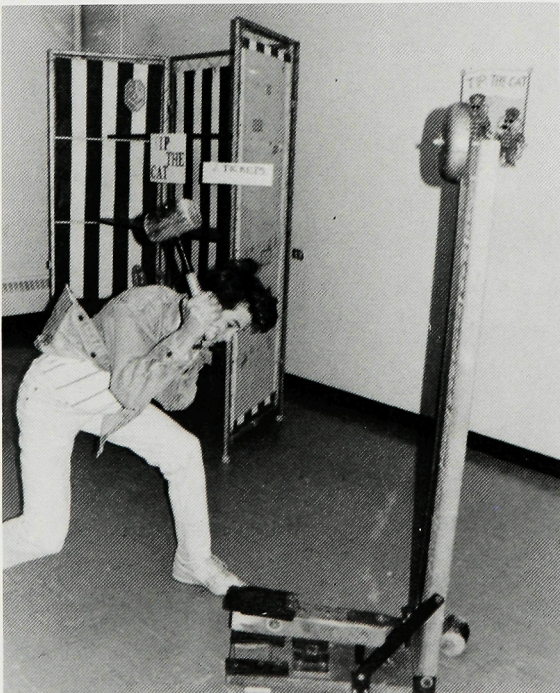

FUN, FUN, FUN, FUN, FUN, FUN, FUN

Country Day Fair

Although the Country Day Fair had its annual rain-out, the festivities were still in full swing, and our spirits were not dampened. As usual, we had traditional booths such as the always popular sophomore class Moonwalk, the shooting gallery, the chance-to-win-goldfish game, the Wheel of Fortune (sans Vanna), and face and hat painting. Last year's new addition to the fair, the lip-sync contest, was again an overwhelming success. In the words of one enthusiastic Upper Schooler: "Golly gee—it was just— no, no, not great, something else.... It was just wonnnnnnnderful!" Overall this year's Country Day Fair seemed to be enjoyed by all!

Consider This . . .

Oliver!

For the first time in several years, North Shore did not put on a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta as its spring musical.

Instead, the first “all-school show” (though there was only one middle-schooler) was a production of the Broadway musical Oliver! While the show seemed to get off to a rocky start, with several cast changes in the beginning rehearsals, the end effect was really quite enjoyable. This was Molly Burn’s second “unorthodox” North Shore production, and she again managed it very well. The show even managed to pull in a full house during both the Thursday and Friday night performances.

Middle School Show

The Ransom of Red Chief

The 1990 Middle School Show was a stupendous success. The production involved all of the Middle School, with 60% of the students in the cast, 16% working on the crew, and the remaining 24% helping with publicity and other related aspects. In general, it was a thoroughly pleasant experience. The Middle Schoolers' various talents really came through! This monumental event in the Middle School lifestyle was definitely a must-see, and a triple thumbs-up to the entire Middle School was in order.

The 1990-91 Mirror Staff

This year's yearbook staff is quite possibly the most amazing group of people ever assembled. We've found that when we're all in a room together, the karma is so overwhelming, we have to immediately sit down. These people are not only beautiful, intelligent, and generally all-around buckets-o'-fun (you already knew that), they are also amazingly talented (and you probably figured that out). Let's start with our local basic studs— Co-Editors-in-Chief, Robert

"GQ" McClung and Stuart "He-Man" Lax. Directly beneath these guys is our Business Manager, Kate "Cleanliness" Kehoe, Gretchen "Greenpeace" Theders is also on the yearbook staff, as our absolutely fabulous Layout Editor. Then, we have Barry "IROC-Zgonena", our ever-lovin' Photography Editor. And, last but not least, is Michaela "General Goddess of Niftiness" Murphy, working her little tail off as Copy Editor. So, we busted our brains when we could have been sunbathing to bring you this incredible Yearbook Supplement, and we certainly hope you appreciate it!!!

Middle School Baseball

Middle School Softball

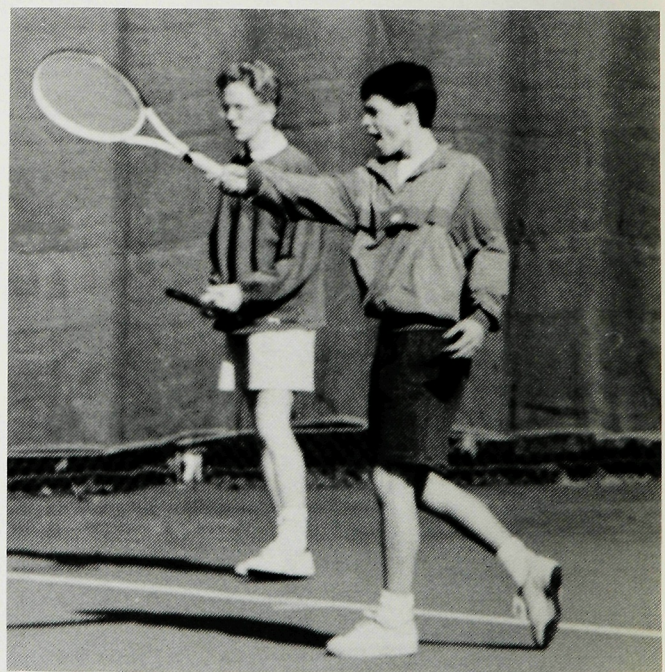

Upper School Baseball

Upper School Softball

Upper School Boys' Tennis

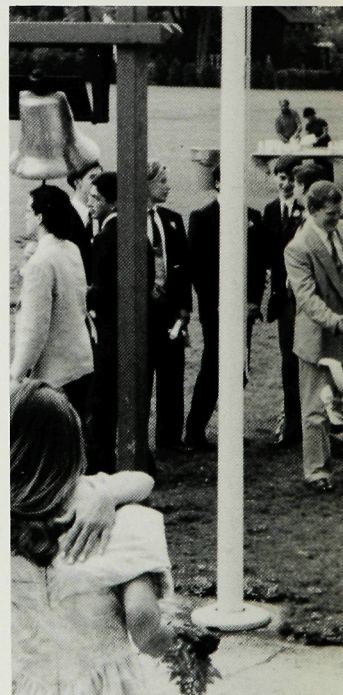

Senior Barbecue & Lower School Closing

Commencement 1990

The graduation of the classes of 1990 and 1994 was indeed a spectacle not to be missed. With many moving speeches by faculty, students, and alumni, most of the participants and the audience were in tears at some point during the ceremony. As always, the seniors managed to add some humor to the event, with a lovely collection of guppies for Mr. Lanphear. The entire yearbook staff, along with the rest of the school, would like to extend their best wishes to these groups of people in the future, whether good old North Shore Country they will be attending college, Day. Good luck to all! another high school, or even

Congratulations to the Classes of 1990 & 1994

College Choices of the Class of 1990

Erik Alm • Deferred until 1991

Joanne Avery • Princeton University

Alan Beattie • Oxford University

David Birdwell • Beloit College

Ashley Brown • Colby-Sawyer College

Paula Castillo • New York University

Beth Cavanaugh • Northwestern University

Lorin Cohen • The Manhattan School of Music

George Connors • Merrimack University

Suhaib Ghazi • University of Redlands

Usama Ghazi • University of Redlands

Jenny Gormanous • Mount Holyoke College

Shanna Horner • North Park College

Mike Israel • Northwestern University

Amy Jacobs • University of New Hampshire (1991)

Jennifer Jones • Returning to Barbados

Ellen Kelly • Georgetown University

Fred Kolehmainen • St. Lawrence University

Ciara McDonagh • Wheaton College

Harold Moore • Wabash College

Ping Pipatpanukul • Returning to Thailand

Mike Rastall • Boston University

Win Repenning • The College of Wooster

Jon Resnick • Union College

Eugene Roginsky • Loyola University of Chicago

Todd Rohlen • University of Vermont

Keary Rosen • Portland School of Art and Design

Heidi Rudolph • Wittenberg University

Peggy Smith • Wesleyan College

Kathy Stephan • Boston University

Lan Tang • Fu Dan University in Shanghai

Stefani Tomaras • Vanderbilt University

Jann-Nicole Trujillo • Hope College

Wendy Warner • Curtis Institute of Music

Andy Wood • Milwaukee School of Engineering

Finisia Wright • Northwestern University

Marilyn Young • Northwestern University

